O que é Design centrado no usuário?

"O Design Centrado no Usuário adapta sistemas às necessidades e perspectivas dos usuários, em vez de exigir que os usuários se adaptem aos sistemas."

Um controle

Não é justo responsabilizar o usuário por falhas em nosso design.

2014 - atual

The image shows a screenshot of the OpenStreetMap website interface. At the top left, the OpenStreetMap logo is visible, followed by navigation buttons for "Edit", "History", and "Export". On the top right, there are links for "GPS Traces", "User Diaries", "Copyright", "Help", "About", "Log In", and "Sign Up".

A search bar is located on the left side, with the text "Search" and "Where am I?" followed by a "Go" button. Below the search bar, a welcome message reads: "Welcome to OpenStreetMap! OpenStreetMap is a map of the world, created by people like you and free to use under an open license." There are two buttons below this message: "Learn More" and "Start Mapping".

Usuários vs OSM.org

- Como você explica o OSM para o usuário?
- Ações que ela pode fazer?
- Quais as necessidades dela?
- Como ela se sente?

O site osm.org é uma espécie de mapa de Schrödinger: é e não é um site para usar dados derivados do OSM.

Soluções?

- Afinal que é o OSM?
- Qual valor entregamos para nossos usuários?
- Como podemos melhorar para o usuário comum e mapeadores?
